The US-China Business Visa Initiative assists businesses in the United States by explaining the visa process when they invite current and prospective Chinese business clients and partners to the United States. This effort involves providing information to U.S. companies about the visa process for visitor visa (B-1) applicants seeking to travel from China to the U.S. for business purposes. The business visa group will work with both the companies and the consular officers to communicate information effectively between U.S. businesses and the Embassy and four Consulates in China.
